The Richard mine through the ages

Visit the new underground exposition „The Richard mine through the ages“

„The Richard mine through the ages“ is the name of the exhibition, which was opened in about 80 metres long underground corridor under the Litoměřice town hall. This project was created by The centre of tourism Litoměřice.

After you enter to the underground by the entrance in Jarošova street, you will track the history of mine Richard, which is situated in a nearby Bídnice hill and is not accessible to public. The exposition is divided to three sections according to the real history of Richard mine. It was at a place where limestone was mined at first, after that the Nazis set up a factory there and nowadays this place serves as a nuclear waste dump. Each section of the exhibition points out one period. No doubt that the darkest one was the end of the Second World War. In those times, 4500 prisoners died in Richard during the slavery work for German arms industry.

Along the corridor there are 24 information boards in Czech, German and English.

The atmosphere is illustrated by historical photographs, signs, iron mine wagon or spilled stones. You can also see the models of casks which are currently used in Richard mine to store the radioactive waste.

Only guided tours are possible.
